

I Do: 30 Readings to Inspire Love and Conversation About Important Issues in Marriage

If newlyweds set aside time each day to read and think and talk together about the matters discussed in this book, they will enrich their marriage and nurture their shared life. Keith and Gladys Hunt originally wrote these 30 readings for their own grandsons, to share with them some of the things the Hunts have learned through their many years of marriage. The blessings will come from God, they say, who will make these readings a significant gift to your life together. Husbands and wives are encouraged to read these together each year to help build a strong foundation for a good marriage.
